Patron loves Book Affair

DRUG Arm patron Elwyn Denman is not just passionate about the annual Book Affair fundraiser; he's also emotionally invested in the lives of the people the proceeds assist.

He is driven to make this year's fundraiser the best yet; and said as it took five months to sort all the books into 26 categories, he was determined to see them all displayed.

But to do this, he needs help. Drug Arm is appealing for volunteers to come forward and assist with the sale, even if they can only help out for a few hours.

Mr Denman said he needed people to put their hands up and help a worthy cause.

"We need about 30 volunteers," Mr Denman said "Whatever they can give us, fine, we're delighted to have them."

"We've got 1000 boxes of books, which is about 40,000-plus books, and they're all sorted and ready to go.

"I have to have every book on display because last year there were some boxes that weren't even opened.

"I'm a patron of Drug Arm and I was silly enough to suggest it might make a good money-maker.

"Over the three years the Book Affair has been running we've raised more than $30,000 which goes to Ipswich projects like the outreach service."

Mr Denman wanted to thank Ipswich City Council and the State Library for their support, and was already looking forward to next year's fundraiser.

"As soon as this one's done, we start again," he said.
